

NO. 10.

MR. BEECHER'S lecture on "Evolution and Revolution," delivered at Louisville and Paris, this week, is almost as sacrilegious as Ingersoll's "Mistakes of Moses." He says he does not believe a word of that part of Genesis which tells about the creation of the world and all things therein in six days; that the theory of evolution is the only manner of accounting for our existence and that if we have descended from monkeys it makes no difference if the descent is far enough. He does not believe in the prayer of faith and as to faith healings he hoots at the idea and says that "when I see a man with both limbs prayed on I shall believe in it." He considers baptism entirely unnecessary, but if a man's conscience calls for such an operation ten drops of water or a bath in mid river would be equally as efficacious. He abhors the Calvinistic doctrine and says it would be the rankest blasphemy if it were not religiously intended. A good deal of the bible is true and he accepts it, but that part which states propositions adverse to science he does not believe, nor does he think any intelligent man can. And yet Mr. Beecher calls himself a Christian! Ingersoll himself could not do the old fashioned religion more harm than he.

When Mr. Cleveland began to ignore the politicians and appoint those only to office who were not seekers in the offensive meaning of the term, we clapped our hands figuratively speaking and applauded vehemently, because all his appointments, even of comparatively obscure men, were apparently so wise. But we draw the line at Buck, yes at Chas. W. Buck and like Macduff cry "Hold, enough." Mr. Buck has been given the Mission to Peru, with a salary of $10,000 a year, and for all we know may be a very deserving man, a veritable Southdown, as it were, but this way of raking the country with a fine tooth comb and catching such individuals and calling them representative Kentuckians must be stopped. It can't be supposed that we can stand everything and then give this administration our prayerful support.

The carelessness of people in attaching their signature to any and all petitions presented to them, is very aptly illustrated in the Buck appointment case. When Senator Buck learned of the President's action he got exceedingly hot in the cellar, said he had "never heard of the d-d man" and went in hot to Mr. Cleveland to remonstrate with him for appointing these unknown men from Kentucky to federal offices. But the rough old fellow's feathers fell when Buck's petition was produced and there in the Senator's own well-known chirography was found scrawled, his name recommending the d-d man, whom he had entirely forgotten. No wonder Cleveland puts no confidence in petitions.

The appointment of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston to be Commissioner of Railroads having stirred up the horsetails of the republicans, that sober-sided and sensible paper, the Brooklyn Union, itself republican, very justly says: "It is too late in the day for republican organs to talk about the outrage of appointing men to office who throw up their commissions in the Union army to enter the Confederate service. Grant introduced this practice many years ago, and it was not wrong for him to appoint a rebel General like Longstreet to a good office, can not be a crime for Cleveland to appoint one of higher rank, like Joe Johnston."

That distinguished honor of an invitation to address the literary societies of the University of Virginia has been conferred on the talented young editor of the Louisville Times, Emmett G. Logan, Esq. We have never heard Mr. Logan attempt anything in English oratory, but it was our pleasure on one occasion, during a meeting of the Kentucky Press Association, to hear him discourse eloquently in German and we know that he is a born orator.

NEVADA has just passed a law which makes "treating" at public bars a misdemeanor. The penalty is a fine of from $5 to $20, or imprisonment of from two to ten days for each offense; and this penalty is doubled where evasion is attempted by "any chicane or subterfuge whatever." Such a law could not be enforced in Kentucky and we shall look with interest to see if it can be even in the unusual atmosphere of Nevada.

THE Chicago Herald, as an advocate of revenue reform, declines to consider Mr. Cleveland's refusal to take Phil Thompson to his arms as an affront to that movement and says that not until he jumps on Waterson, Morrison, Carlisle or some man of his size will he hurt the feelings of the revenue reformers.

GENL. WILLIAMS has returned with his family to his blue-grass farm, satisfied that republicans are ungrateful and that Cleveland is a humbug. He has not said so, but the look of unutterable disgust, which possesses his broad features when the Mexican Mission is mentioned, shows plainer than words could express his thorough disgust.

RNEY BOYD, who was charged some years ago with burglary, but acquitted by a continental jury, and who had the gall to apply for the Chilean Mission, got left as he should have been. A New Yorker by the name of Roberts knocked the periscope.

THE re-appointment of Pearson to be postmaster of New York sends a cold chill down the backs of the waiting and expectant democrats, who have no higher conception of party principles than that to the victors belong the spoils. Pearson has in no sense been an offensive partisan and while there will be tremendous kicking by a few, the appointment will give general satisfaction. Besides the mugwumps are entitled to some recognition at the hands of the Administration and this is no more than they deserve.

TWENTY years almost to a day from the time he received the surrender of Gen. Lee and his army, Gen. Grant lies dying at his home in New York. Rising to the highest rank in the army and afterwards to the most exalted position in the gift of the nation, he has been honored as few of his kind have been and his death, which is expected hourly, will be regretted by patriotic people everywhere.

A WASHINGTON paper commenting upon the admirable appointment of Judge Durham says: "The most important fiscal office really in the government is that of First Comptroller of the Treasury, he being the court of final appeal, so far as accounts are concerned."

THE office of the Eminence Constitutional was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday and the Treasurer of the Kentucky Press Association, Hawthorne Hill, Esq., calls on members for contributions to the publisher, Mr. W. A. Holland.

Mr. Gray was an old and highly respected citizen and an energetic and consistent Free Mason. Ryan Commandery of Knight Templars of this place, of which deceased was a member, attended the funeral. Mr. Gray left a wife and several grown children.

—Lee McRoberts "got on a cotillion" at Junction City Sunday night and tried to get up a row with Evan Tucker. Tucker, not wishing trouble, went after town marshal Helm, McRoberts following and threatening him. After Evan returned McRoberts shot at him but didn't hit him. McRoberts was brought to town Monday and lodged in jail. He was tried in the evening and sent to the work house for 30 days.

—An ill-favored negro woman named Jessie Jackson has gotten a notion into her head that she has "been called" to preach the gospel. She "preached" to a motley crowd at the colored skating rink Sunday night and again at the Cumberland Presbyterian church Wednesday night. Her personal appearance and utterances are said to be ridiculous in the extreme. She proposes to continue the circus saying, "woe is me if I preach not the gospel!"

—J. T. Fackler, who lives just south of town, shot a negro named Ben Weatherford Tuesday night with a shotgun, wounding him in the right arm and peppered other portions of his anatomy in a manner that unfit him for horseback exercise. Ben had just stolen ten chickens and a huggy blanket from Mr. Fackler, had wrung the chickens' necks off, wrapped them in the blanket and was preparing to leave the premises when detected. He refused to stop when commanded and Mr. Fackler fired on him. He continued to run, and Mr. Fackler, taking a short turn, intercepted him. Ben then assaulted Mr. Fackler, striking him over the head, when Mr. Fackler again fired on him. Ben continued to run and was soon after arrested by Sheriff Salter and posse, who were lying in wait to arrest a gentleman named Harris for whipping his wife.

—One of the saddest things in life is a conflict of authority between a police court and a magistrate's court. We have such a conflict here and it is bounded and described as follows: On Monday last two well-known gentlemen of the county became involved in a pleasant fight while engaged in a conversation on Main street. The display of science for a few brief moments was beautiful to behold. Right and left dukes shot out from right and left shoulders and landed on right and left optics with the lovely precision of loaded dice. Tears of admiration coursed down the cheeks of veteran spectators and they prayed that the exercises might be continued forever. Just about this time Sheriff Salter appeared on the scene and separating the combatants took them before the county judge, where they kissed, made friends and were fined $5 each. It was not long subsequent to this period in the history of the affair that the town marshal arrested both men and took them before His Honor the police judge, where they were arraigned for the same offense for which they had been convicted by the county judge. The attorney representing the defendants secured a continuance until Wednesday morning when he presented to the court an affidavit signed by the defendants and two persons they had selected as "reputable citizens" setting forth in the language of the statute that his clients could not obtain a fair and impartial trial before the presiding judge and that the said presiding judge would not fairly pass upon questions of law that might be raised. His Honor's response indicated that there was a strong impression in his mind that the two "reputable citizens" were not reputable "to boot" and that the defense would have to come again. The defense did come with additional witnesses and then the court said as believed she would try the case any how and did try it with a jury, over-ruling all motions dilatory and otherwise. The jury after hearing the case wrestled with it for a while and then reported that they could not agree and were discharged and the whole business will have to be heard over again. Selah

"PRAISE THE LORD."

STEAMER NIZAM, Monday, Mar. 2, '85.

Dear Interior:

We had a pleasant railway journey from Naples to Brindisi—the last 70 miles through olive orchards—continuous—and the trees of prodigious size and age. On board our steamer we make up for lost sleep by going early to bed. We were soon in the "arms of Murphy," as Pat would say.

Awakened at 4 this morning by the thundering rattle of the anchor chain passing through the hauser or "eye" of the steamer. We have our cabin just in the bow, and get the full benefit of any noise made in connection with anchor heaving. After the tramp of all night railway travel, as we had it, out of Naples, how delicious to stretch one's limbs on a comfortable bed. The berth on our steamer is of good length and very clean and nice. We all slept soundly and woke refreshed. The Adriatic as calm as a mill pond; the stately vessel ploughing her way through the blue waters at a good rate; while a small shoal of porpoises played under her bows, leading her easily in the race without any perceptible propelling power. Just the swift, glancing forward dart of their graceful forms, with no apparent wriggle of tail or fin. Like "the way of a bird in the air," that was too much for the wise man to understand, the way of a fish through the sea is alike mystery. At last, they seemed tired of the sport of easily beating the levitation propelled by steam, and left us to run alone.

We have only two fellow-passengers, second class, a couple of German gentlemen going to Mozambique. They speak very broken English, but quite enough to be intelligible. We soon struck up an acquaintance this morning. They will accompany us as far as Aden, where they branch off to their African destination.

WEDNESDAY, Mar. 4th.—These asterisks mean a good deal that can not be put on paper. I have thought so often in the last 48 hours of the experience of dear Paul on these very waters where we are now toiling. "When the South wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed." But not long after there arose against it a tempestuous wind, called Euruslydon. You can read all about it in the 27th chapter of Acts. Well! I think this same "Euruslydon" or his twin brother has had hold of us. For verily "no small tempest" has lain upon us, since I last had pen in hand. And the "good fight of faith" was a little too hot for writing. Some of us came off "more than conquerors" and some with deep scars of combat. This time the "womenfolk" had the best of it. Mama, Cousin Judie and George bore up the best, Marie slightly emotional; Brother Barnes very pensive; and Will hors de combat. One of our German friends horribly sick. The other quite well. This ends the second class cabin, with the exception of a Turk & Egyptian (we haven't exactly made out his nationality yet) who appears at intervals, and then disappears mysteriously—a gent of yellow complexion with very capacious trousers, patent-leather shoes and a red fez cap with a black tassel. He wears cotton in both ears, talks broken English; and goes as far as Alexandria.

This morning we are all up and comparatively well, praising the dear LORD that we are no worse, and still trusting for perfect victory ever attained, on his own ground. More and more do I believe that the sea, in some way, the place where he has special power and authority; and within the past 48 hours we have appreciated, as never before, the sweet promise, there shall be "no more sea."

Our steamer is manned with Hindoo-teen, 30 or 40 of them: the first class passengers number 40—nearly all sick. The officers are exceedingly polite and attentive. We are all sitting in a small tent, which they have obligingly rigged up for us, on deck. Here we are completely sheltered from the occasional showers and the still furious wind. The Nizam is very steady, for such a wild sea, and makes good headway against the gale blowing right in her teeth. Yesterday afternoon we passed the island of Candia. The snow capped the higher summits of her mountains.

We like our German friends very much. They are splendid young fellows, and we are trusting to be made a blessing to them. One leaves a widowed mother and the other a sweetheart behind, and they naturally draw near us in their loneliness. I hope they will succeed, and go back with their coveted fortunes that will make the aching hearts in the Fatherland nappy once more. I knew such fine fellows must be missed at the fireside at home. One of them is a model of manly beauty, with the figure of Apollo, a Lieutenant of Engineers in the German army, and a fine soldier, I warrant. We have a good deal of fun teaching him English, which he speaks in a very tangled way just now.

ALEXANDRIA, THURSDAY, March 5th.—Here we are in Egypt. Is it a dream? Stately steamers and sailing ships all around, boats gathering like a flock of vultures about the fresh arrival: fez caps and baggy trousers and strange jargon of tongue; and Alexandria in full view, all proclaim the reality of the scene. I can only say we are all well. We are with the mail bags to Suez, by rail in two hours. Praise the dear LORD for our safe voyage to the African coast.

THE delightful weather of the three past days has had a wonderful effect on vegetation. The bleak looking hill sides and the brown and ear meadows now wear a cheerful coat of green, the buds are coming out, the dog-wood blossoms are preparing to burst forth and everything indicates that corn planting time is again upon us.

TO DAY twenty years ago, Richmond, the Capital of the Confederate State, was evacuated and on being occupied by the Federals, the principal business portion of it was set on fire and burned. There is now no trace of the bloody scenes of a score of years ago. The burnt district is occupied by much handsomer houses than were there before the fire and the city's prosperity is assured.

SAW MILL.—Attention is called to the card of Messrs. Foote & Wheeler, calling attention to their new saw mill on the top of the knobs. They are enterprising Englishmen, who have come among us to earn an honest living and we trust that a liberal patronage will reward their undertaking.

HOPE deferred maketh the heart sick; Mr. G. M. Lane learned from experience yesterday. He came to town for license to marry Miss Laura Baker, just turned the age of sweet seventeen, but because he failed to bring a paper from the parent or guardian of the young lady, signifying his willingness that the nuptials should proceed, the cruel clerk refused the necessary permission and Mr. Lane bled himself away a sadder and a wiser man. The consent of the girl was all that was necessary to the fulfillment of his happiness, he thought.

AFTER a man has been forced for several months to eat the average stuff that is sold on our market for butter, he can truly appreciate something really nice in that line. Such was our condition yesterday when a plate of beautiful and well-prepared butter, sent by Mrs. R. C. Warren, filled a want long and deeply felt in our household. It was from the fine Jersey cow, Frances Kidley Haverall, whose milking qualities have been demonstrated over more noted animals on several contests with them. Mrs. Warren will please accept the thanks of an almost dying man for her opportune gift.

CHEESAPEAKE & NASHVILLE.—The Committee appointed to draft a petition to the County Court to name a day to take the sense of the people on the question of providing the right-of-way for the Chesapeake & Nashville railroad has performed its duty and obtained the necessary twenty-five signatures of tax-payers and that of the president of the Company. The matter will be acted on by the Court Monday and as it has no option in the matter, the law requiring it to act when petitioned in the prescribed manner, it is likely that Saturday May 21 will be chosen as the day of election. The petition states that the amount to be expended by the county for the right-of-way, depot grounds, etc., is not to exceed $25,000. This, it is thought, will be ample to secure them, but if in excess only the actual amount required will be used. Some well posted men think that they can be secured for $15,000 or even less. But even should the entire $25,000 be necessary, the advantages to be derived by the county in the event the road is located through it, will be many times the amount expended. Besides the great amount of money that will be disbursed here during its construction, the consequent enlivening of all kinds of trade and the increased demand and higher prices for all the farm products, the road will enhance the value of our lands, augment our population and give us an importance at home and abroad that we can enjoy only by securing it. Furthermore it will not increase taxation as some suppose, but on the other hand reduce it after the road is built and it becomes a tax payer. The bonds can be floated at 5 per cent. or less and by the time they are due the taxes derived from the corporation, together with those obtained from the new commerce, the enhanced value of all our lands and especially those along the line of road, will have produced a sinking fund sufficient to pay them off, even at our present low rate of taxation. Our neighboring county of Pulaski, which several years ago built one of the handsomest Court-houses in this whole section at a cost of nearly $50,000 has already been enabled, we learn, principally from the tax she obtains from the Cincinnati Southern, to pay off the bonds loaned for the construction of the building. We are further informed that the County Court of that fortunate county, has in view of the fact that all its debts are paid, passed an order providing that the tax derived from the railroad shall go to a sinking fund, with which turnpikes are to be made all over the county. We mention these suburban facts to show that by a little liberality, we may be able to secure an investment, which will not only repay the money expended, but in the near future aid us materially in meeting the expenditures of the county. On the present proposition we do not see how anybody can be opposed. If we do not get the road we lose none of the money asked to be voted. If we do secure it we not only see plainly that we will get our money back, but obtain an investment that will pay us many times over.

THE old gentleman has no opposition, but it will be very gratifying to him and his friends, if all who vote Saturday will remember Judge Thomas W. Varnon for County Judge.

TURNED TO STONE.—Twenty-one years ago, the mother of Mr. A. D. Newland died and was buried in the old family graveyard. Desiring to have the body placed in Buffalo Springs Cemetery, Mr. Newland had it disinterred Tuesday, when it was found that it had turned to stone. Those who saw it state that the face, save that it had changed to a brownish hue, was almost lifelike in its naturalness. The features were good and even the hairs on the face could be plainly seen. The hands were perfect and had not changed color. The case was a metallic one and inside the lining appeared fresh and clean. The grave clothes were all in a good state of preservation and the ribbons and lace looked like they had just been placed there. An effort to get Mr. Newland to place the remains in the vault proved unavailing and so fearful was he that they would be sought by scientific men, that he placed huge stones on the coffin and rammed the earth around with heavy mauls. The case was very heavy, requiring several men to handle it.

RELIGIOUS.

—ELM J. G. Livingston will preach at Sugar Grove school-house next Sunday at 11 A. M.

—Rev. W. H. H. Ditzler, of the Southern Methodist church, was married Wednesday to Miss Nannie Roberts, of Bloomfield.

—Rev. J. M. Evans and Brother J. H. Hopper are holding a meeting at Paduch that had resulted in 106 additions to the Presbyterian church at last accounts. Collections for evangelistic work had been raised to the amount of $512.

—As an evidence of the great religious revival now prevailing in this country, the fact is cited that in the exchanges of the New York Independent for a single week 25,000 additions to the various churches in the United States were reported.

—Bishop McQuaid, Catholic, of Rochester, has ordered that hereafter, in his diocese, none but Roman Catholics and actual communicants shall sing in the choir. He says: "How revolting it is for the congregation to hear the voice of one who does not believe in what he or she is singing. It is mockery, instead of worship."

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—John T. Tracy, Frank Miller and W. Ramsey sold twelve hogheads of tobacco in Louisville last week which realized $8.95 at home. These were extra good crops. [Winchester Democrat.]

—A man has a cow which has her first calf at the age of 3, and one each year till she is 21. Her offspring are all bellers and equally as productive.—How many head of cattle will the man have at the end of twenty-one years?

—Randolph Peters, Delaware's leading nurseryman, states that he has examined many peach trees and finds but little damage done so far. Should the buds not be damaged by late frosts there is every indication of a good crop this season.

—The Jersey cow, Princess 2d, 8,046, the property of Mrs. S. M. Shoemaker, of Baltimore, has just completed a seven day's test under the supervision of the American Jersey Cattle Club. Her yield was 46 pounds and 12 1/2 ounces, well worked butter.

—There is but little doing in the cattle market at Louisville, which is very dull. Quotations run from 2 for very common to 3 1/2 for extra shippers. Hogs are dollar at 3 1/2 to 4.70. Sheep 2 1/2 to 4 1/2. A shade higher prices prevail all around in Cincinnati.

—An experienced cultivator says in speaking of early potatoes: The genuine Early Rose is good enough and early enough. The Beauty of Hebron is equally good, and there are a dozen other varieties any one of which, if you happen to have it, will ripen about as early, and give satisfaction. If any one tells you he has a potato that will ripen two weeks earlier than the Rose or Beauty of Hebron, and yield as much again per acre, tell him that it is a most valuable variety, and that he had better plant all he has and not sell a tuber to any one else for seed. For early potatoes, plant in good, rich, mellow soil as soon as the frost is out of the ground. You can hardly plant too early. Until the plants appear, severe frost will not hurt them.

CRAB ORCHARD, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Deputy U. S. Marshal Johnson arrested Mr. Thos. C. White for tampering with the Pension laws, instead of a prominent attorney as reported by the Courier Journal. They left for Louisville with their witnesses Tuesday night, and on Wednesday he was held in $1,000 bail.

—D. C. Payne has returned from the city, where he has been laying in his spring goods. G. W. and J. W. James are in the city. Misses Kate Hays and Laura Adams left last Saturday for Glasgow to attend the Normal school for teachers. Miss Louanna James entertained a few friends in a royal style Wednesday night.

—The Kersey Combination rendered "Lady Audley's Secret" at "College Hall" last Saturday night. All the members of the troupe acquitted themselves very creditably and the very respectable audience present seemed highly entertained. They left Tuesday night for a tour through the mountains. We wish them a successful trip. The young people had a dance Tuesday at the "Hall" which was said to be an enjoyable affair. The Danville colored band was in attendance and furnished good music.

—Seven of our old citizens, all of whom live in or near the town, accidentally met at the postoffice one day this week, when the subject of age was broached and it was found that the combined ages of the seven was 484 years or an average of a fraction over 69 years; they are all in good health and spirits and seem good for many years yet. The following are the names and respective ages of the above named gentlemen: W. O. Hansford, 63; J. F. Higgins, 62; Samuel Hardin, 62; A. B. Foley, 70; James Adams, 71; Wilson Tidale, 78; Jacob Guest, 83. Guest and Tidale were born in Va., but moved to Lincoln county, Ky., when quite young. Hansford, Higgins and Foley were born in this county, Adams in the State of New York and Hardin in Wayne county, Ky.

—Col. C. B. Alexander, a prominent citizen, fatally shot himself with a shotgun at his home near Hopkinsville. He arose sometime after midnight, went out into his orchard and deliberately shot himself in the head behind the ear.

BREAR, GA., Nov. 6, 1884.

GENTLEMEN—I have been using your wonderful remedy, "Dr. Braddfield's Female Regulator," in my family for a long time, and I want to say to the suffering ones of my sex that there never was anything equal to it. Would to God that every afflicted woman in our land knew of its wonderful virtues and curative powers as I do. I have used a great deal of it since the birth of my last child, about a year and a half ago, and I do think had it not been for this valuable medicine, I would have been BED-RIDDEN FOR LIFE!

But thanks to a kind Providence, I was directed to its use and my life and health have been spared me. If my means would admit of it I would never be without it in my house.

I have recommended it to a number of my friends and without exception they have all been wonderfully relieved and cured. I give this endorsement without solicitation, and freely, for the benefit of the suffering ones of my sex.

Very respectfully, Mrs. ANNA RAMP.
